Vulcan Students Win Share Festival Awards

High School Entries Gain Second Place with 104 Points; Public School Participants Awarded Third Position

Vulcan students, participants in the musical and dramatic festival held in High River on Thursday and Friday, May 14th and 15th, greatly impressed the audiences attending the annual district event and were awarded places in the judging of most of the items on the program of both days. On Thursday the High School entries gained second place during the awards with a total of 104 points. Turner Valley gained first position with 115 points, this number winning the grand challenge cup for aggregate marks.

On Friday, the public school units from Vulcan competed in the musical festival. The entries were well received and won high praise from Capt. Edwards, public school inspector. The Vulcan entries were placed in third position for the aggregate number of marks.

In the high school competition, Vulcan carried away first place honors for both chorus and orchestra competitions. The chorus work under the direction of R. H. Weale received excellent comment from the adjudicators. On commenting on the selection The Cradle Song, the adjudicator said that the group had a much better blend and balance than the other choruses. Anticipation and phrasing was excellent. It was a good musical performance, said the judges. Comment on the other chorus selection, Spring Song, was that the shading was good and long phrases had beautiful tone. Rendition had a nice happy atmosphere in keeping with the spirit of the song. The general comment on the two performances was "very nice work." The High School orchestra also received high praise for their performance of selections during the festival and were one of the finest features.

Awards were given to Vulcan High School students as follows; wind instrument, solo, Edna McPherson, first, Wm. Weale, second; piano solo, Verene Almond, second; Hugh McPherson third; violin solo, Mildred Ulrich, second; Lloyd Jones, third; elocution, Grades XI and XII, Kay McPherson, first; Grades IX and X, Noreen McPherson, second; vocal solo, Grades IX and X, Gordon Lundgren, second; Grades XI and XII, Wm. Weale, third. Results of the public school work at High River, resulted in the gaining of first award for the senior action song, The Trolls. In the junior action song, Autumn, the Vulcan entry won third award. For their senior dramatization Mrs. Magician's Mistake, the Vulcan students gained second standing. Individual prizes were won by Mary Spaeth and Elvira Sikora in the solo competition for Grades IV and V.

School Orchestra Wins Two Contests in One Day

Creating a reputation in musical, the Vulcan high school orchestra won two competitions in one day. On Thursday, May 14th, the orchestra played in competition at the High River musical festival and there gained first award. The first competition won was in the afternoon. Leaving High River immediately following the competition, the orchestra journeyed to Lethbridge to enter into the competitions in the festival being held at that point. In this class the Vulcan orchestra nosed out their rivals, the Champion school orchestra by one point. Vulcan received 86 and Champion 85. Commenting on the competition The Lethbridge Herald says:

"A real treat was enjoyed by the audience when orchestra selections were played by the Champion and Vulcan musicians. Vulcan played the more difficult selection. Vulcan has a very expressive group of players showing intelligence in their playing. Champion players were in good time, in tune and had good tone with some attempt at expression. Their performance was very creditable."

The Vulcan group is to be congratulated on the success of one day's venture in competitions in widely separated points.

SEED TIME

Perhaps the happiest time of the year is seed time. Then we are inspired by hope, and hope knows none of the limitations of realization. It is boundless. The tedious pathway to blossom time and harvest, fades into the background, and in our mind's eye every seed fulfils its fruitful mission. Spring is the season of hope, the never-failing restorative of mankind.

Seed growth is one of the most beautiful and surprising miracles of nature, an evolution which never grows stale. It is incredible that these tiny, dark entities should spring forth as they do, bursting from the ground, and expanding with such a wealth and variety of pleasures for taste and eye. There is probably nothing in the material world which brings such satisfying return as a package of seeds—nothing that gives such value for the effort entailed in planting and tending.

Although the large scale sowing of grain out in the country has been beset by soil drifting this spring, the gardener has experienced a pleasant season. The uniformity with which spring "broke" has been one happy factor and there has been time to savor the pleasure of leisurely planting, to deliberate on plans.

It is not hard to recall many less favorable planting seasons. Last year was one of rush in which the prime object was to get seed into the ground before it was too late for planting. It was generally backward so far as first growth was concerned, beset by frost and minor discouragements.

There have also been many of the ultra early seasons when the impatient gardener leaped to action early in April, rousing disapproval amongst his neighbors. Such ambitious gardeners upset life. They run counter to nature by their untimely energy, violating established rules disturbing the serenity of whole neighborhoods, a reproach to the dilatory, a general nuisance—and too often justifying their unseemly haste by their results.

This year this has been very little of this neighborhood irritation. When the season finally "broke" everyone was in tune, and everyone got away to practically the same start. Rivalry is confined mainly to methods, with all gardeners starting at scratch.

And now we can dream our dreams and hope our hopes, until realization begins to rear its ugly head.

THE SMALLER VIEW

This is a time when a view of the big world beyond this continent is not conducive to happiness or serenity. There are few places on the map to which one may point and say "There is a country of security and contentment." It is, generally speaking, a distressed and distressing world, unnecessarily so no doubt, because munition makers must maintain profits and national leaders must outsmart each other. Hate, fear, distrust, avarice emanate from many quarters, threatening to encircle the globe unless the causes, real or imaginary, are removed.

At such a time, the only rest and security comes from the small view. The little community and the individuals with whom one comes in direct and daily contact, serve to maintain faith in mankind and in the real kindness of human beings. Individuals around us triumph daily over hate and distrust. They discipline themselves to live in peace with each other, looking for virtue more eagerly than faults. They make substantial concessions in material adjustments for the sake of harmony and goodwill, sacrificing that demanding fetish of "rights" for the larger good. They refrain from exploiting the weak and the helpless, seeking to remove insofar as they can the cause of suffering. In neighborhood disagreements they try to ex-erise understanding, rather than fan feuds.

Their individual "honor" is not a fragile thing, suffering from minor affronts. It is something within themselves controlled by themselves, built up through honest dealing and a refusal to countenance dishonesty or unfairness. It is something so staunch and vital that it cannot be successfully assailed. Individuals realize that man's span is short, and the best that can be got out of life are friends, a good name and harmonious associations. It is only fair to assume that individuals—the world over, have this common aspiration.

How strange that national feeling and international dealings are often so much less admirable than the feelings and dealings of the individuals who make up the nations. "National honor" seems to have a far different standard from individual honor, being concerned mainly with property and possessions. National policies of acquisition and exploitation would be frowned upon if displayed by individuals. Any intelligent community would quickly discourage the secret treaties and "ganging up" practised amongst nations.

The world today, at least in respect to some nations, seems to offer one example in which the whole is not greater than its parts.

BETTER PASTURES

Amongst a number of smaller stockmen one hears the comment that pastures are not what they should be or have been. They are not in shape this spring to carry the desired amount of stock, and do not promise well for the season unless there is much better growth than has been realized in recent years.

Commenting on this condition which seems to be general, the Lethbridge Herald says: "We are somewhat prone in this country to let nature do it. Great piles of manure wasted, and a native pasture quite bare in August—how often this combination is seen. There is too much dependence on native grass, on many farms and small ranches. The result is that pasture value is obtained from only a fraction of the land set aside for that purpose. A systematic plan of breaking up native pastures and sowing to crested wheat grass, brome or such grasses would give much greater returns. This would build up a hay reserve in good years and would be profitable under all circumstances.

Over-grazing is a great danger, especially during a series of dry years. A rest is required by pasture fields, and occasional re-seeding in order that full value may be obtained for the land.

"It has been said that only about one-third of Canada's pasture land is efficient. This is quite believable."

NO TIME FOR DEBATE

The majority of people in the province will approve Premier Aberhart's statement that he does not intend to enter into any further controversy with Major Douglas. Major Douglas may be a wronged man in regard to his theories, but he is not wronged financially, in his dealings with Alberta, and that is a phase which should go far to assuage him.

Moreover, the Major has time on his hands in which to indulge in cablegrams and in long wordy theoretical argument. But Premier Aberhart is extremely busy, with no moment to spare for abstractions. It would appear that the British exponent of Social Credit had his opportunity to come to Alberta and thus lead the world. Regardless of what he may say, there is the firmly lodged conviction that he evaded his opportunities and responsibilities, and is now no more, so far as this province is concerned.

Premier Aberhart is carrying immediate and heavy duties to his people. Although the outside world may be pressing for the application of Social Credit, there are other matters also demanding attention. The refunding of provincial debt, the Dominion allotment for road work, the method by which the road program is to be financed; financial relationships with the Dominion; the entire credit of the province; the new forms of taxation; new laws and amendments to new laws—these and a score of other matters are of vital concern to the electors of the province, and must therefore be the major concern of the premier.

There is quite a tendency on the part of those outside the province to heckle and badger Premier Aberhart about the Social Credit platform on which he was elected. Even within Alberta there is a certain impatience.

But the integrity of the province in relation to creditors and to other parts of the Dominion is surely of the first consequence. In the light of this immediate problem, Major Douglas and his theories fade much farther into the background, than he apparently realizes.

Hundred Dollar
Exemption Means

The ruling allowing $100 worth of goods to enter Canada duty free will not cause much worry among Canadian merchants as there is so much formality to go through, it is unlikely many will subject themselves to it. Canadian residents re-entering Canada with goods must describe and list all articles, with the prices paid. They must show separately goods brought in for someone else, or for sale, as these are dutiable. Failure to declare any article acquired, or any false statement, will subject the traveller to personal penalties and the goods themselves to seizure. The traveller must declare that he has not received any exemption from duty during the preceding four months and that the articles listed were acquired as "an incident" of his journey and that he did not go abroad with the intention of obtaining such articles.

The $100 exemption for personal and household goods includes such articles as automobile accessories, tires, and tubes, boots and shoes, clothing, and foodstuffs.

In a discussion on the type of milk which should be provided for school children, the chairman of the health committee said: "What this town needs is a supply of clean, fresh milk and the council should take the bull by the horns and demand."—The Cowbell.

Aberhart Quotes
Neville Chamberlain

Recalls Words of British Chancellor
Saying Alberta was Doing What
Britain Had Done

At his Sunday service, Premier Aberhart quoted the words of Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the British Exchequer in 1932, claiming that Alberta had done merely what Chamberlain advised.

"A statement by Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the British Exchequer in 1932 in connection with a British loan refunding was read by premier Aberhart and found to be applicable to the Alberta situation. The statement pointed out that bondholders could not expect to enjoy 5 per cent interest when the country was entitled to a lower rate. Also it pointed out that no class was escaping the need of sacrifice. Mr. Aberhart pointed out that four years ago Britain had done what Alberta was now doing and that there had been no squeals from the British bondholders. The premier pointed to the savings that would be made possible by the reduced interest in Alberta and stated that the refunding would be of immense value to industry."—Albertan.

Railway reductions from 3.45 cts. to 3 cts. will be effective in Canada after June 1.

It is proposed that Alberta's export of livestock be controlled by the government, with all marketing done through central depots in Calgary and Edmonton.

Stock Growers in 40th Convention

The Western Stock Growers' Association will meet on Thursday and Friday, May 28 and 29 at the Palliser Hotel in Calgary. This is the fortieth annual convention of an organization working in western interests 365 days of the year. All beef cattle and livestock men are cordially invited. Every member is urged to be present, and to make an effort to secure at least one new member.

The speakers include Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Dominion Minister of Agriculture; Hon. C. W. Chant, Provincial Minister of Agriculture; Hon. Chas. Cockroft, Minister Municipal Affairs, and Hon. C. C. Ross, Minister of Lands and Mines. The two latter speakers will discuss taxation of grazing lands, etc.

The Western Stockgrowers Association, carries an honorable record in this province. It receives no government grant, and has carried on more independently, vigorously and practically, than almost any other organization, self-supporting, and sticking firmly to its original function, the protection and promotion of stock growing interests. But it must have the support of a representative membership of those interested in cattle raising. Fees are $2.00 a year, for those owning 200 cattle or less; and $5.00 a year for those owning 200 to 500 head; with graduating scale there after.

During the past hard winter the Stock Growers' office was 'deluged' with appeals in the matter of feed, and performed a considerable service in alleviating the situation. It has been and is recognized by governments as an authoritative, responsible body, with Senator Riley serving as president for a great many years.

Questions that invite the discussion or support of all cattle men, include rentals and taxes on lease holds; stockyards service, export quotas and lowering of tariffs, the world's cattle market reports and a hundred other matters. Mr. Jack Byers is the manager, with head office 28 Michael Building, Calgary.

THREE PERIODS OF SLANG

I have watched the shifting of youth's generalized attitude toward life as expressed in its characteristic slang expressions. If we divide youth generations into half-decades, this is what seems to me to have happened:

1920-25: "Let's go!"

Implication: Exuberance, recklessness, lack of direction.

1925-1930: "Oh yeah?"

Implication: Distrust, lowered energy.

1930-1935: "So what?"

Implication: Loss of purpose, disbelief, cynicism.—Eduard C. Lindeman in the Survey Graphic.

May Use Alberta Credit for Roads

Premier Aberhart Prepares Public for Business of Financing Road Program

Unless the Dominion government embraces a more comprehensive public works program for Alberta than that announced, that is, the allocation of $400,000 for relief works, the provincial government may be forced to use its credit in the financing of such a program, according to Premier William Aberhart.

Plan to be Considered

By utilizing the credit, the premier meant the giving of bonds or certificates as security against payment for services rendered in the construction of a relief works program.

"Work has to be obtained for our people and we must take steps to put them to work. If we are to have no more than the $400,000 suggested in despatches from Ottawa, that would be a help, but not sufficient to keep our jobless employed for more than two months.

"With this in mind, we may be forced to formulate some plan of issuance of certificates or bonds.

The premier pointed out that institution of such a system should not strike terror into people's hearts. After all, he said, the present situation is based on sound money or gold. Never, he said, had there been enough gold to fully secure the amount of credit, or paper issued against it.

Only about a one to ten ratio was preserved in the matter of gold to credit or paper issued, he said. He pointed out that if any country lost its production its money would have no value.

The details of plan said to be under consideration by the government for issuance of scrip in payment of wages—as printed in some Alberta and other papers would have no place in his plan. The premier repeated that there was no thought of having any suggestion of scrip as payment of wages. Scrip was illegal.

But, pending working out of details there was nothing to prevent payment with issuing of bonds or certificates against the credit of the province and this would be done if further assistance was not forthcoming from Ottawa.—Morning Albertan.

Here's something for all Alberta to try to beat: A resident of this district 85 years of age, this week made application for a driver's license. He has excellent health, excellent eyesight (can read a newspaper without glasses) can ride horseback or follow the plow for a whole week at a time, could take anyone on for a walk from Blairmore to Calgary, etc. etc. He is a capable of handling a car as the average fifty-year-old.—Blairmore Enterprise.

Canada Must Not Flood U. S. Market

George Ross, rancher of Lethbridge has returned from Saint Paul, and issues warning to Canadian cattlemen not to flood the U.S. market.

Scouts for the Republican campaign committee have cameramen in the St. Paul stockyards photographing large shipments of Canadian cattle, brought in under the reciprocal trade agreement, and a very determined effort to stir up political feeling against the pact may be expected from that quarter.

"I was in St. Paul on a Monday when 125 carloads of Canadian cattle about 2,500 head, rolled in," said Mr. Ross. "You can just imagine the effect of that heavy shipment upon the market. It broke it for days. And the American rancher and feeder naturally was wild-eyed about it. That's when the pictures were taken which we may expect to see in the Republican campaign literature being scattered through the ranching and feeding areas between now and the presidential election.

Spread Shipments

"Now," continued Mr. Ross, "had those cattle arrived at the rate of 20 carloads daily, they would have caused barely a ripple in the market, and there would have been no protest. I firmly believe that Canada will have to find some way to spread shipments to U.S. markets.

"Probably the railways could help, by taking only a certain number of cars across the line in any day. Or probably the Dominion livestock branch could design some way of spreading shipments."

Mr. Ross also warned that, at the rate Canada is pouring cattle into the U.S. markets the quota allowed under the pact, about 155,000, including cattle from Mexico and Canada both, the quota will be used up before grass stuff gets a chance at the market next fall. That is another argument for control of shipments.

Tax Time Montreal

No resident of Montreal needs to be told that the city is in financial difficulties; a stream of bills for taxes and licenses is a constant reminder in case he should forget, which he is not likely to do. Despite the desperate need for revenue, red tape rules in the finance department. One by-law requires that on May 1 every owner of a dog must take out a license costing $3.49. A reader of The Financial Post who happened to be in the city hall on April 30, went to the license department, laid down $3.49 on the counter and asked for the new license. The clerk refused to issue the license and on being asked the reason said: "We can't accept payment until the new license books are opened and that won't be until tomorrow. Come around then, or better still, send a cheque and we'll issue a license."—Financial Post.

THE KING!

There is an old custom which decrees that no person shall smoke at a banquet until after the toast to "The King." The custom is a graceful tribute to the sovereign. The toast usually follows the dessert course, and most of us refrain from smoking for the few minutes that lapse between the last mouthful of pie and the toast. At large dinners the chairman sometimes proposes the toast immediately the head table is served its final course. If this procedure were followed everywhere the little discourtesy to the King would be avoided.—Amherstburg Echo.

A number of inmates of Portsmouth penitentiary are to write entrance examinations. Perhaps they would like "exit" examinations better.—Hamilton Spectator.

Ethiopian Defeat League of Nations

Toronto Saturday Night Surveys the Consequences of Italian Aggression

The disappearance of the Ethiopian Empire and the conversion of its territory into an Italian colony would not in themselves be regrettable events in the march of history, if it were not for the effect which they are producing upon the League of Nations and upon the whole idea of collective security in international affairs. And even this effect may not be wholly regrettable, if it includes an increased recognition by genuine collectivists of the fact that a workable collective system must make allowances for changing pressures of population upon subsistence. The one point for which credit must be given to the Italians is that from the very beginning of the League—long before they developed the system of government under which they now operate—they urged with great vigor and very sound reasoning that economic as well as political problems must be given due weight in any attempt to regulate the relations between nations by other means than force. The problems thus raised are very difficult ones, and the other nations of the League, with Canada at their head declined to have anything to do with them. It will not be possible to go on declining to have anything to do with them indefinitely.

It is possible to argue that had the Ethiopians been really devoted to the regime of Haile Selassie they would have been able, with the aid of the economic sanctions imposed by the League, to put up a sufficient resistance to make their conquest an exceedingly slow, and therefore practically impossible, achievement. Italy was certainly not in a position to face a prolonged struggle at a distance from its ocean bases. This would amount to asserting that the League can be expected to help only those who are pretty good at helping themselves. This is a long way from the absolute guarantee of territorial integrity which is the theory of the collective system; but it is a correspondingly long way nearer to a realistic attitude towards a problem for which realism is indispensable. Italy committed an act which, if it had not prospered, would have been treason against the League of Nations. It has prospered, and we predict that there will be little future inclination to call it treason.—Saturday Night.

A few years ago a country council in Ontario refused even to discuss the merits of sterilization of the unfit. At a recent meeting the same body gave full approval and recommendation of such a policy. The rapidly growing cost of maintenance of jails, mental hospitals and sanitariums for the care of the unfit, may be the deciding factor, just as it was found economically worth while to eliminate scrubs from cattle herds.

Further Exemptions Under Sales Tax

The provincial government has added exemptions to the new sales tax, which it is hoped will help in the construction of new factories and aid industry. All material exempted must be produced, manufactured or processed in Alberta. Industrial machinery and equipment will be exempt; also farm and ranch buildings and improvements when constructed or sold; farm equipment used solely for farm or ranch operation.

Amongst foodstuff exemptions are cereals and their products; pies, pastry and cakes; meat and meat juices; milk and its products; fish and fish products; eggs, vegetables, fruits, dried fruits; nuts, salts, spices, sugar products (except candy) syrup, honey jelly powders, sauces, soups.

Maestro Weadick Manages Stampede

Guy Weadick will again direct the Lethbridge Stampede program to be held in the southern city on July 20, 21 and 22. He made such an outstanding success of the event last year, that the directors of the annual Exhibition are sold on the idea of repeating the Stampede parade and daily stampede features.

When Guy assures the public that it is going to be "bigger and better than ever," this year, that is what it will be. He will spare no effort in securing rodeo material, trophies and prizes. His is a long arm and he can reach out and drag 'em in and give value in entertainment, as probably no other huster of ceremonies can do.

He has made several trips recently to Lethbridge, and is already cooking up a number of new and thrilling novelties in addition to the pioneers' parade, and cowboy events.

Lethbridge and the surrounding area can boast of many of the real old timers of the province, and the annual round up in connection with the exhibition is an important and colorful event.

Guy Weadick was also summoned to Yorkton this winter to discuss the management of a Stampede there. Before he left a contract was signed for July 13, 14 and 15.

He will direct the Nanton Stampede on August 19. At Nanton on that date, a couple of hundred tourists from New York will see the cow country, with Nanton as the frontier town. This Nanton side-stop, is part of an "all-expense tour" starting in New York and bringing tourists into Canada under arrangement of the G.N.R. and West Magazine. The tourists enter Canada going first to Regina and detouring at Calgary will travel by bus to the E.P., Turner Valley, the Nanton Stampede, Waterton and Glacier Park.

Many of the tourists on this all-round trip are drawn from Weadick "Range Riders' Club" in the West magazine.

WEDDING

OLSEN—LUCAS.

A wedding of much local and district interest was solemnized at the Vulcan United church on Saturday, May 16th, at 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon, when Myrtle, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Lucas of Reid Hill, became the bride of Mr. Forrest O. Olsen, of Vulcan. Rev. P. G. McPherson officiated. Miss Amy Tuttle played the wedding march. During the signing of the register, Mrs. D. A. Allred sang a solo selection. The bridesmaid was Miss Agnes Skatrud. The groom was attended by Mr. D. Arwyn Evans.

The bride was charmingly gowned in a yellow silk suit, with matching accessories. The bridesmaid wore a blue-green crepe dress with matching accessories.

Following the wedding ceremony, a reception was held at the home of Mrs. Lillian Leighton of Vulcan. Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. John Dahl, Mrs. James Lucas and Mrs. Bruce Crabb. Immediate relatives and friends attended.

BOARD OF TRADE MEMBERSHIP NEARS CENTURY MARK

Membership in the organization of the Vulcan Board of Trade is fastly nearing the century mark, a first objective set by the membership committee, Messrs. Walker, Allan and Hunter. Seventy-five members have already joined the new organization, and by next Thursday, first general meeting day, the membership committee expects to report a membership of 100. Following the reaching of the first objective, the committee will strive for fifty more members to bring the total to 150. Practically every business man in town is now a member and farmers are readily joining on learning the advantages that such a co-operative group will bring in improvements to the community.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sick and the world looks punk. A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of a colon but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 50c.
